Did You Know?

- When we consume energy (calories), beyond what the body needs, we store the excess as fat. Similarly, when we do not consume as much energy as the body needs, we draw from the excess stored fat to make up the difference. This can be drawn into an easy-to-remember equation.
- Energy in – energy out = energy balance
- Energy in describes food and drink consumed.
- Energy out describes energy expended (through movement, exercise, digestion, body maintenance, shivering).
- Energy balance will either be positive or negative depending on your lifestyle.
